Globalism and Localism in Telecommunications

Edited by
E.M. Noam
A.J. Wolfson, Columbia Business School, New York, NY, USA

Description
The telecommunications industry is being transformed by contradictory forces: on the one hand, the trend toward global expansion by carriers, and on the other hand, fragmentation and entry in local communications. These transformations represent two sides of the same issue: a blurring of market boundaries created through technical innovation, policy liberalization, user initiatives and entrepreneurialism. The result is a complex web of overlapping network definitions, product and service markets, carrier types, technical standards, government policies, financial arrangements, and cooperative ventures. This volume discusses the complexities of these bi-polar forces and maps out the policy issues which need to be addressed today and in the future.

Contents

Introduction: The End of Territorality in Communications
(E.M. Noam, A.J. Wolfson).

Dynamics of the New Local Communications Markets.
Competition and "local" communications: Innovation, entry and integration (G.L. Rosston, D.J. Teece).
Changing corporate culture in the local competitive environment (J.E. Katz).
Turning the cables: Economic and strategic analysis of cable entry into telecommunications (G.A. Woroch).
A study of long-distance rates: Divestiture revisited (A.M. Noll).
Can local telecommunications be self-policing? A proposed discovery procedure (J. Haring).

Universal Service: Creating Effective Policies for the Future.
Universal service: Realities and reforms (M.A. Einhorn).
Reforming universal service: A prerequisite to competition and interconnection (E.M. Noam).
Universal service: Policy options for the future (S.G. Hadden).
Universal service: The rural challenge changing requirements and policy options (H.E. Hudson).
Funding the public telecommunications infrastructure (B. Egan, S. Wildman).
Universal service in Japan (K. Hayashi).

Communications Beyond Frontiers: Expansion of National Carriers Across Borders.
Telegeography and the explosion of place: Why the network that is bringing the world together is pulling it apart (G.C. Staple).
Megamedia: The growth of international media conglomerates (W.R. Neuman).
The evolution of global networks: The precarious balance between governments and markets (J.D. Aronson).

Investment Drivers for Global Telecommunications.
Investment and structural trends in multinational services (R. Kramer, A. NiShúilleabháin).
Technological change and multinational growth in international telecommunications services (C. Antonelli).
Buying and banking on prospective returns in telecommunications (M.A. Salinger).

Policy Issues for the New Global Communications Environment.
New global network developments: Regulatory and trade challenges (K.E. Bernard).
Standards competition in wireless: Regionalism vs. globalism.
The case of the third generation mobile telecommunications systems (L. Sung).
After privatization: Neocolonialism? (J.-P. Chamoux).
Toward an international competition policy in global telecommunications (K.W. Grewlich).
The globalism of public telecommunications operators - toward a new framework of telecommunications policy (Y. Kurisaki).
Reforming the international settlement system (A. Halprin).

Index.

Reviews
Prometheus

"...Globalism and Localism in Telecommunications is a valuable text reviewing some of the most pressing questions in telecommunications policy. It is an invaluable acquisition for university libraries."

Bibliographic and Ordering Information

For information about conditions of sale, ordering procedures, and links to our regional sales offices, please read through our ordering information.

Year 1997

Hardbound

- ISBN: 0-444-82382-4
- 432 pages
- Price: Order form
  - USD 112
  - EUR 112

Books and electronic products are priced in US dollars (USD) and euro (EUR). USD prices apply world-wide except in Europe and Japan. EUR prices apply in Europe and Japan

NORTH-HOLLAND

Last update: 20 Apr 2002

© Copyright 1999-2002, Elsevier Science, All rights reserved.