

Table of Contents

PART I: REGULATION OF COMMON CARRIERS

by Michael Botein and Eli M. Noam 15

Introduction 17

Chapter I: The U.S. Carrier System 19

A. Overview 19

B. Regulatory Authorities 21

C. AT&T 23

D. The FCC's Jurisdiction 26

E. Types of Networks 29

1. Public Networks 29

a. Local service 29

b. Long-distance service 30

c. International carriers 31

2. Private Networks 35

3. Closed User Groups 36

4. Domestic Carriers and International Communications 37

5. The Equipment Market 39

6. Role of U.S. Antitrust Policy 42

Chapter II: Developments in U.S. Regulation of International Common Carriers 46

A. Overview of Deregulatory Policies 46

B. Providers of International Service	49
C. Changes in Regulation of International Telecommunications Services and International Service Providers	50
1. Elimination of the Voice/Record Dichotomy	51
2. Entry of Western Union into International Telecommunications	51
3. Entry of Additional International Carriers	51
4. Extension of Computer II Rules to Provision of International Service	52
5. Applicability of Deregulation of Common Carriers to International Communications	52
6. Uniform Settlements Docket	54
D. Facilities-Related Regulatory Decisions	55

Chapter III: The International Impact of Domestic U.S. Restrictions on the Availability of Data 60

A. Limitations on the Export of Data	60
1. Atomic Energy Information	61
2. Munitions Information	61
3. »Dual Use« Technology and Technical Information	62
4. Multilateral Export Controls	63
B. Privacy	63
1. Restrictions on the U.S. Government	64
2. Governmental Interception of Wire and Oral Communications	65
3. Governmental Access to Financial Data	66
4. Electronic Funds Transfer Act	67
5. Private Collection of Credit and Other Financial Information	68
6. Collection of Information by Cable Television Systems	70
a. Federal law	70
b. State law: The Wisconsin, California and Illinois examples	71

7. Unauthorized Interception of Programming	72
C. Anti-Espionage Laws and Classified Information Statutes	74
1. Gathering, Transmitting or Losing Defense Information	74
2. Delivering Defense Information to Foreign Governments	75
3. Disclosure of Classified Information	75
Conclusion	76

PART II: REGULATION OF MASS MEDIA

by Stephen R. Barnett 81

Introduction 83

Chapter IV: Framework of National Law: Regulation of Domestic Media 87

A. Constitutional Framework: The First Amendment	87
1. Scope and Purposes of First Amendment Freedoms of Speech and Press	87
2. General Categories of Constitutionally Protected Speech	89
3. Special Aspects of Constitutional Protection: Prior Restraint, Content Neutrality and the Public Forum	90
a. Prior restraint	90
b. Content neutrality	91
c. The public forum	92
4. Limitations on the Constitutional Protection of Speech	93
a. Unprotected speech	93
b. »Clear and present danger« of public harm	93
c. Regulations that »incidentally« restrict speech	94
d. Defamation	95
e. Invasion of privacy	96
f. Copyright infringement	97
g. Censorship of government employees by contract	98

B. Regulatory Framework for the Print Media	100
1. Special Applications of Constitutional Protection	100
2. Applicability of General Laws	101
C. Regulatory Framework for Movies, Plays and Other Nonelectronic Audiovisuals	102
D. Regulatory Framework for Radio and Television Broadcasting	103
1. The Federal Communications Commission and the Radio Spectrum	103
2. The Licensing of Broadcasters	106
3. Ownership Restrictions	109
4. Obligations to Promote the Electoral System	110
5. The Fairness Doctrine	111
6. Aspects of Broadcasters' Independence	115
7. Regulation of Programming Content	116
8. Informal Regulation of Programming	117
9. Regulation of »Offensive« Programming	118
10. Regulation for Reasons of Public Health	119
11. General Laws Regulating Broadcasters	120
12. Deregulation of Broadcasting	120
E. Regulation of Other Electronic Media Delivery Systems (Excluding Cable and DBS)	122
1. Subscription Television (STV)	122
2. Low Power Television (LPTV)	122
3. Multipoint Distribution Services (MDS)	123
F. Regulatory Framework of Cable Television	125
1. Description and Background of Cable	125
2. Local Franchising Regulation of Cable	126
3. Cable and Copyright	127
4. Cable Regulation by the FCC	128
5. The Cable Communications Policy Act of 1984	130
6. Cable Regulation and the First Amendment	133
a. The constitutionality of access requirements	133
b. The constitutionality of exclusive franchising	135
c. The constitutionality of cable franchise fees	137
7. Regulation of the Reception of Cable Programming from Satellites	138
G. Regulatory Framework for Direct-Broadcast Satellites	139

Chapter V: Regulation of Media Flow Into the United States	143
A. Regulation of Incoming Information Flow in General	143
1. Principles and Practices Protecting Incoming Information Flow	143
2. Restrictions on Incoming Information Flow	147
a. Restrictions on visitors' visas under the McCarran-Walter Act	147
b. Restrictions on foreign travel of U.S. citizens	152
c. Customs restrictions on communicative materials	154
d. Customs exemptions for communicative materials under the Beirut Agreement	156
e. Regulation of foreign »political propaganda« under the Foreign Agents Registration Act	158
f. Restrictions on foreign production of communicative materials: the »manufacturing clause« of the Copyright Act	167
g. Restrictions on importing copyrighted works produced abroad	170
3. Summary Concerning U.S. Regulation of Incoming Information Flow in General	175
B. Regulation of Incoming Electronic Media Flow	176
1. Restrictions on Foreign Production of Media Content or Foreign Ownership of Communications Facilities	178
a. No limits on foreign production of programming	178
b. Restrictions on foreign ownership of U.S. broadcast stations	179
c. Restrictions on foreign ownership of DBS licenses	182
d. No restrictions on foreign ownership of programming entities using U.S. domestic satellites	183
e. No restrictions on foreign ownership of U.S. cable systems	184
2. Restrictions on Terrestrial Broadcasts into the United States	186
a. Frequency allotments by treaty	186
b. Regulation of programming transmitted from the United States for broadcast back into the United States	187
c. Prohibition of »pirate« broadcasting into the United States	188

d.	U.S. retaliation against advertising by U.S. firms on Canadian stations with U.S. audiences	189
e.	Carriage of foreign broadcast signals by U.S. cable systems	191
3.	U.S. Restrictions on Reception or Retransmission of Signals from Foreign Satellites	195
a.	Reception without consent of originator	196
b.	Reception with consent of originator	198
	(i) The FCC's position: Such reception is illegal unless authorized by the FCC	198
	(ii) Evaluation of the FCC's position	200
c.	Examples of U.S. reception of foreign satellite signals	203
	(i) Backyard-dish reception	203
	(ii) Reception for academic purposes	206
	(iii) Reception for retransmission as news	211
d.	Permitted reception of foreign satellite signals under U.S. law	211
	(i) The FCC's Transborder decision	212
	(ii) FCC approval for continuing reception from Soviet satellites	213
	(iii) Special temporary approvals for news coverage	214
e.	Constitutional problems in the U.S. law governing reception from foreign satellites	215
f.	The right to rebroadcast programming received from a foreign satellite	218
g.	Summary concerning U.S. reception of signals from foreign satellites	218
4.	Possible U.S. Restrictions on Foreign DBS Broadcasts into the United States	219
a.	Restrictions on foreign involvement in U.S. communications	220
	(i) Foreign-ownership restrictions	220
	(ii) Foreign »political propaganda«	221
b.	Policies underlying the regulation of U.S. broadcasting	222
	(i) Effects of a new service on the existing system	222
	(ii) Content controls	222
	(iii) »Political« obligations	223
c.	Summary concerning foreign DBS	225

Chapter VI: Regulation of Media Flow Out of the United States	226
A. Regulation of Outgoing Information Flow in General	226
1. Restrictions on International Mail	228
2. Export Restrictions	230
3. Certification of »Educational« Films for Duty-Free Import to Other Countries	232
B. Regulation of Outgoing Electronic Media Flow	235
1. Licensing of International Broadcast Stations	235
2. U.S. Government Use of International Broadcast Frequencies	237
3. Sale of U.S. Television Programming Abroad	239
4. Satellite Distribution of U.S. Programming Abroad	240
C. Conclusion Concerning Outgoing Media Flow	243
Conclusion	245
National Report Questionnaire	247