

The Telecommunications Revolution. Routledge, 1992.

The Telecommunications Revolution: Past, Present, and Future

Edited By Harvey M. Sapolsky, Rhonda J. Crane, W. Russell Neuman, and Eli M. Noam

Contents

Notes on contributors	ix
Preface: Decentralization and deregulation on the march
Harvey M. Sapolsky	xi
1 Is telecommunications truly revolutionary?
Lester C. Thurow	1
2 Beyond the Golden Age of the public network
Eli M. Noam	6
3 The politics of deregulation
Alan Altshuler	11
4 Did regulation keep pace with technology?
Peter Temin	18
5 The significance of Telecom 2000
Kenneth Robinson	28
6 On thinking about deregulation and competition
Michael E. Porter	39
7 Viewing divestment from afar
Douglas C. Pitt and Kevin Morgan	45
8 The ecology of games in telecommunications policy
William H. Dutton	65
9 The economics of international competition
Charles Jonscher	89
10 The economics of international telecommunications
Alfred C. Sikes	94
11 A history of recent German telecommunications policy
Eberhard Witte	98
12 The future of German telecommunications
Karl-Heinz Neumann	102
13 Telecommunications policy in France
Jean-Pierre Chamoux	109
14 Telecommunications policy in Japan
Tetsuro Tomita	114
15 The politics of international telecommunications reform
Jill Hills	120
16 The struggle for control within the telecommunications networks
Marvin A. Sirbu	140
17 The future of the telecommunications marketplace
Peter F. Cowhey	149

18	TV technology and government policy
	Rhonda J. Crane	155
19	Negotiating the world information economy
	Geza Feketekuty	167
	Epilogue: Commuications policy in crisis
	W. Russell Neuman	199
	Glossary	206
	Index	208